

In Memory of Max Comstock

Written by Jacob Rodenburg

July 2005

We here at Camp Kawartha were very saddened to hear about the passing of Max Comstock. We have fond memories of his big smile, his warm handshake and his interest in the children and the goings on at Camp. He was, of course, a staunch supporter of our work here. He truly believed in the value of a camp experience for children of all backgrounds. And in a substantial way, he helped to make this happen, both through his interest in our camp and in his financial support.

In trying to honour Max Comstock and his kindness to our camp, we will provide a legacy that would represent his love for children and the outdoors. That is why each summer (including this one) a child will be fully sponsored in Max's name for a session at camp.

There is saying which states: "for every drop of goodness, goodness flows." I think this nicely reflects Max's support of our camp. The funding Max provided us each year, helped many children from financially challenged backgrounds experience the joys of summer camp. They felt warmth, caring and a sense of fellowship. I know these campers will carry these feelings with them throughout their lives. For every drop of goodness, goodness flows and it will continue to do so, thanks to Max Comstock.